CAN'T EMPLOY MECHANICS

Architect's Office at the Capitol Under Civil Service.

FIFTY A DAY ARE REFUSED

Applicants Must Be on the Commission's Little List-Men With a Strong Pull, Though, Will Be Needed to Help House Some Immense Machinery-ProgressofImprovements.

At last the employes of the Capitol have been brought under the civil service law. The commission has been busy since the last order made by President Cleveland trying to arrange the classes of workmen at the Capitol. They have about finished that task now and the applicant for a place there is turned down each time unless he has a certificate from the commission. Even then he must show that he is on the list of eligibles and has his proper number.

The work of repairing which is going on up on the hill has caused every man in the city who is out of employment to seek a position there. As many as fifty men a day apply for places. A number of them are mechanics, with the best of recommendations, and they are glad to get even a laborer's job. But all are refused and no one stands any chance now He must go to the Civil Service Commission.

IMMENSE MACHINERY. ne of the improvements which are being added on the Senate side comprise mmense pieces of machinery. Today work will be begun on the foundation for the dynamos and the remainder of the new electric light plant. The dynamo is a 3,000-light one and is joined to the same shart with the engine. The weight of the entire plant will be about nineteen tons. To support this immense piece of ma chinery it is necessary to lay the heaviest piece of iron that has ever come into the Capitol building. No one piece of any material approaching it in weight has ever been carried into the building. It is a cast-iron plate Weighing 19,000 pounds. On the top it is about 20x9 feet. It is to rest on a solid concrete foundation, 10 feet deep, 24 feet long, and 10 feet wide. It is to be placed in the room adjoining the present dynamo room of the Senate. To protect the walls from any vibration, the foundation is laid on a bec of sand and packed in with sand, thus acting as a cusion.

It will be no easy job to get this immense iron plate in place. The plate will be delivered at the northeast corner of the Capitol and a track will be built aroun the north terrace and a part of the wes terrace. When it is loaded on the rollers t will take at least twenty men to push it. A huge derrick is to be erected in the courtyard on the Senate side, and the plate will be lowered to the level of the terrace corridor. It will be run into the dynamo room on a truck built for the purpose. The carridor will be shored to protect the walls. The great engine and dynamo will be brought in the same way. In all it will take a week to get these three pieces into place. It is expected that it will be done without the displacing of a brick.

WIRING AND PAINTING. Work on the laying of wires for the lamps in the grounds will be begun next week. The contractors will begin digging up the grounds Monday and expect to have all the wires laid within two weeks. It will require very rapid work. The wiring on the inside of the building is progressing rapidly In the Senate the iron frames for the floors of the chamber and galleries are being put down, and will be ready for the flooring next week. Visitors to the Capitol just now are runfling against scaffolding in all directions. In a week or so, though, it will be hard to make the visitor believe that it is not a new building be is going through. The painting of the walls is making the greatest difference imaginable. The tims are delicate and the new electric lights make a wonderful change. The gloomy appearance has all disappeared and in all directions one can see well-lighted corridors.
